ABSTRACT

The objective of Project Alms Giving was to support the Navam Full Moon Poya Day religious program at the Meepawala Sri Sudarshanarama temple. By providing a full lunch aimed for the devotees observing Sil, the club aimed to facilitate the temple's schedule and begin our 2026 service year with an act of generosity. This project was also conducted as a way to seek collective blessings for the club and its members for the year ahead.

PROJECT NEED ASSESSMENT

Benefiting Community	The benefiting community for this project was the gathering of approximately 300 devotees who visited the Meepawala Sri Sudarshanaramaya temple to observe Sil on the Navam Full Moon Poya Day. These devotees spend the whole day engaged in religious activities, which requires them to be focused throughout the day. By providing the lunch alms, we ensured that these devotees had access to a quality meal to support them and to help them stay focused throughout their day. Along with the food, we distributed copies of the 'Budumaga' magazine, giving them valuable reading material to study. Our goal was to support their day by providing their meals and providing Buddhist reading material, assisting the devotees to remain fully focused on their religious commitments throughout the Poya day.
Identified Community Need	Poya day is a day that usually draws a large crowd to the temple. We identified that providing alms for lunch for the devotees would be a significant contribution to the community. We expected a large number of people on this Navam Poya and recognized that providing a quality meal would be a great act of generosity, allowing the devotees to stay focused on their religious activities.
Service Opportunity	The Navam Full Moon Poya Day program at Meepawala Sri Sudarshanaramaya temple provided the ideal opportunity for us to launch our service activities for the year 2026. As our first project of the year, it was a chance to establish a strong presence in the community and demonstrate our commitment to religious values. This project offered us a opportunity to start the year with a great act of generosity while allowing us to improve our ability to handle large scale projects. Through this, we had the chance to support the temple and ensure that the devotees could take part in the religious program with complete focus and without any worry regarding their meals. We believed that starting the year with such a project would not only set a high standard for our upcoming work but would also obtain blessings for the year ahead.
Mode of Data Collection	Discussions with temple authorities and observations of the volume of crowds on the morning of the project day.
