● About the Project

1. Project Objective

The primary objective of Project Alms Giving was to support the Navam Full Moon Poya Day religious program at the Meepawala Sri Sudarshanarama temple. By providing a full lunch aimed for the devotees observing Sil, the club aimed to facilitate the temple's schedule and begin our 2026 service year with an act of generosity. This project was also conducted as a way to seek collective blessings for the club and its members for the year ahead.

2. Description Project

➤ Community Need / Requirement:

Poya days draws a large number of people to the temple. We identified that providing lunch for about devotees would be a major contribution to the community and a great act of generosity, allowing devotees to fully take part in religious activities taking place.

➤ Project Selection / Idea Generation:

We chose an almsgiving as our very first project for 2026 because It felt right to begin our service activities for the year by directly contributing to the religious cause and seeking a positive, blessed start for our upcoming projects. This project allowed us to start the year with a well-planned project and a great act of generosity

➤ Planning and Execution:

The execution phase was centered on providing lunch for approximately 300 devotees. This involved a meticulous preparation process to ensure the quality and quantity of the meals met the requirements.

Beyond the provision of meals, we integrated a significant component into the project. We distributed copies of "Budumaga," a Dhamma magazine publication. We provided these magazines to offer a source of high-quality religious literature. This addition aimed to provide devotees with something that will assist them in their religious journey and to provide something to spend their free times meaningfully.

➤ Challenges Identified:

- The most significant challenge was that the majority of our club members were preparing for their Ordinary Level examinations. Therefore, we decided not to involve those members in the work of this project. This left a much smaller group to handle the entire project in which a significant crowd was to be benefited from.
- A critical risk identified during the planning phase was the potential for inadequate food supplies to meet the demand of devotees if attendance was higher than the formerly estimated 250. Given the uncertainty of the total number attending this program, there was a genuine concern that our initial supply would not be sufficient to provide a full, high-quality lunch.

➤ Solutions Implemented:

- To fill the gap caused due to unavailability of members due to O/L Exam, the remaining members worked together with extra effort, taking on a lot of responsibilities. We worked together carefully to ensure that the workload was covered efficiently by the available team.
- To address the risk of inadequate supplies, we monitored the number of devotees arriving at the temple in the morning. We observed that the actual attendance was slightly higher than our initial estimate, meaning our prepared supplies would not be enough to serve everyone.
To resolve this, our members acted immediately by contributing the necessary extra supplies, from their personal funds, to fill the gap. This ensured that we had enough food to provide a full meal for every devotee.

➤ Contribution from Leo Club Members:

The success of this project was entirely due to the dedication of our club members. When we realized that our initial supplies might not be enough for the number of devotees present, our members took immediate initiative by contributing extra supplies using their personal funds. This ensured that every single devotee received a full, high-quality meal.

Beyond that financial support, members handled the entire process. This included helping the preparation of food, transporting the food to the temple and distribution of food. Our members worked together to ensure that every meal and every 'Budu maga' magazine was handed out personally to each devotee.

Our members put in a significant amount of hard work throughout the day, starting from the food preparation, moving through the distribution, and finishing with the cleanup of any leftovers. Without the commitment and effort of our members, this project would not have been a success.

➤ Conclusion:

Project Alms Giving was successfully conducted by the Centennial Leo Club of Richmond College, effectively supporting the Navam Full Moon Poya Day program at Meepawala Sri Sudarshanaramaya. By providing about 300 meals and distributing the "Budumaga" magazine, thereby meeting the needs of the devotees observing Sil.

The project served as a meaningful start to our 2026 calendar, proving that our club can conduct a large activity even while many of our members are busy with O/L exam preparations. The temple expressed their sincere appreciation for the alms giving. This initiative has set a high standard for our upcoming service year, demonstrating our commitment to community service and the values of generosity and respect.

Description
 The Centennial Leo Club of Richmond College started its 2026 activities with "Project Alms Giving". We provided and distributed meals for the devotees observing Sii at Sri Sudarshanarama Temple during the Navam Poya Day religious program. We worked with the temple and handled the distribution according to the day's schedule to make sure the process took place punctually and didn't interrupt anyone. This was our first project for the year 2026 and by conducting this project, we aimed to start the year meaningfully by supporting the devotees as they engaged in religious practices.
